

Youth Engagement Event

Tuesday November 10, 2020 Via Zoom, 6:30 -7:30 NL Time

Development and Peace in Newfoundland and Labrador

Development and Peace is a democratic international solidarity movement that depends on the commitment of thousands of Canadians determined to support our partners in their struggle for justice in the Global South.

With hundreds of youth and student groups across the country and a network of elected Youth Representatives, Development and Peace presents a dynamic way for youth to live out their faith.

Are you interested in the Social Justice Movement? Would you like to learn more about getting involved?

Join us with our National Youth Programs Officer, Selina Hunt to learn how you can help make justice happen. Hear from Selina and other youth representatives from Across Canada about their experiences with Development and Peace.

Selina Hunt has been a Youth Programs Officer with Development and Peace since March 2019, and she has been involved as a youth member since 2008 in multiple ways, including being the Youth Representative for Northern Ontario, and participating in the Youth Solidarity Tour to Zambia in 2014 with anglophone and francophone youth from across Canada. She has a bachelor's degree in Community Economic and Social Development, and a Master's degree in International Development. Selina is passionate about hiking, Lake Superior, and working with young adults.
